To Whom it May Concern:

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter of recommendation for Byron Rodgers, whom I had the privilege of working with Beginning in 2017 at Harvest Christian Fellowship. As the then Assistant Security Director, Byron Rodgers demonstrated a deep-seated commitment to establishing and nurturing a premier security detail for our Riverside campus.

With school operations running Monday through Friday and extensive church activities on Sundays and multiple nights throughout the week, the task of ensuring unwavering security for our community was no minor feat. Yet, Byron Rodgers masterfully undertook the challenge, assembling a team that provided comprehensive protective services, from armed security operators to full-scale emergency management.

During our tenure together, I bore witness to Byron Rodgers's unique blend of skills that make him stand out in the private security sector. His approach to devising a protection strategy for schools and churches is both meticulous and visionary. He possesses an inherent understanding of the nuances and dynamics of these environments, ensuring that the strategies implemented are both effective and respectful.

For a little context, before joining Harvest Christian Fellowship, I dedicated 32-years to local law enforcement, serving in nearly every capacity before retirement. Drawing from this extensive background, I can confidently state the level of professionalism, strategy, and leadership Byron Rodgers brings to the table is unparalleled.

Today, I now have the honor of leading the security program at our Riverside campus, a program that Byron Rodgers laid the foundation for. It is a testament to his proficiency and vision that many of the employees he initially hired remain an integral part of our team. Their lasting impact is evident in the seamless operations, the unwavering trust our community places in our security detail, and the pervasive sense of safety that envelops our campus.

In summary, I wholeheartedly recommend Byron Rodgers to any institution or organization seeking a dedicated, insightful, and accomplished security professional. His expertise in building effective, efficient, and respectful private security strategies for educational and religious institutions is truly commendable.

Warm regards,

Mark Ortiz, (909) 917-3021

Consultant / Assistant Security Director, Harvest Christian Fellowship - Riverside Campus
